THE MAN FROM MARS

ON A MEMORABLE DAY IN JUNE, 1937, A MAN FROM MARS UNEXPECTEDLY DROPPED TO EARTH, LANDING ON THE NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC FIELD. IMPRESSED BY THE LARGE CAMPUS, HE EAGERLY ACCEPTED THE OFFER OF A YOUNG NEWTON STUDENT TO SHOW HIM THE VARIOUS PHASES OF SCHOOL LIFE BY MEANS OF THE "NEWTONIAN."

ANNUAL OF NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

FOREWORD

The Editorial Staff has earnestly endeavored to produce an annual which will meet with your unqualified approval. We present the 1937 "Newtonian" . . . a really different year book. You are to judge its success.

THE EDITOR

MR. PAUL E. ELICKER

AT the May, 1936, meeting of the Newton School Board, Mr. Paul E. Elicker was granted a leave of absence from September 1, 1936, to June 1, 1937, to head the Atlantic Zone Committee of the organization for the co-operative study of secondary school standards, which was formally initiated in August, 1933, on call of the U. S. Commissioner of Education. This study is being conducted through representatives of six regional associations of colleges and secondary schools in the country, and receives its support from co-operative groups and from a special grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

The work is divided into three phases. The first is the formulation of specific statements of tentative criteria covering schools' philosophy and objectives, the pupil, the staff, the plant, the educational program, and the administration. The second is an experimental tryout of criteria developed in the first phase by experienced school administrators in 200 selected schools, including schools in every state, and representing such schools as will include the various elements present in the complex character of our educational system. The third phase will include an extensive analysis of results, in order to provide material for evaluating secondary schools. This phase will be conducted during the year 1937-1938.

After a three-week period in the staff office in Washington in September, when schools in the vicinity of that city were visited, each committee has been at work in its respective area, spending from two to five days in each school.

We of Newton High School are justly proud of the great honor which both the school and our principal have received through his appointment to help in executing this important and difficult task. This study must have been interesting and stimulating. We are extremely grateful for the felicitous messages he has sent to the student body, and we are looking forward to his return.

RAYMOND A. GREEN, ACTING PRINCIPAL

THE Newtonian wishes to congratulate Mr. Green on his successful year as Acting Principal. In the absence of Mr. Elicker, he has performed his numerous duties with cheerful understanding and proficiency.

It is no small task to be responsible for the affairs of a school with an enrollment of over 2,000 for there are always new problems to meet. Mr. Green has never failed to meet one of these problems efficiently.

Added to his more serious activities Mr. Green finds time to appear in the popular Faculty Plays. Below we see our Acting Principal as he looks when he acts.

MR. GREEN, ACTING SHERLOCK HOLMES

FRANCIS J. FOSTER

THE Newtonian sincerely congratulates Mr. Foster, Newton's efficient Acting Assistant Principal. His quiet understanding of student problems and his unfailing friendliness have endeared him to Newton pupils.

FACULTY PLAY

UNDER the kind but masterly hand of Mrs. Blanche F. Bemis, the faculty presented this year an adaptation of Nathaniel Reid's comedy "The Queen's Husband."

Set in a mythical kingdom on the North Sea, the action takes place in the private office of King Eric, the henpecked husband of Queen Martha. Haughty and martyrlike, Miss Louise Wetherbee gave a convincing portrayal of this royal personage. Mr. Francis J. Foster, as the king, offered a true-to-life interpretation of a penguin-loving checker player. Miss Lucille Burnham rendered a natural and unspoiled beauty to the part of Princess Anne, accompanied by Mr. Charles Peterson, effective lover.

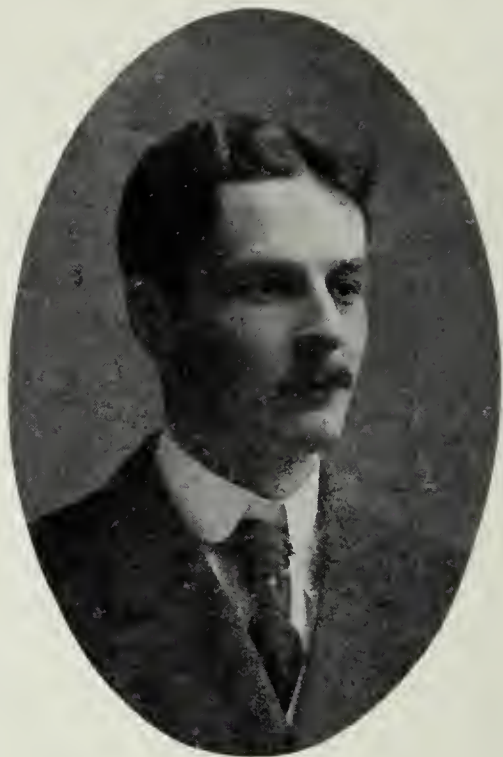

Forrest Paige, as Petley, and Carl Swan, as Phipps, handled well the offices of royal ushers. Carl Birmingham was an arrogant Lord Briten; while Charles Harrington, as Doctor Fellman, portrayed a gracious and refined diplomat. Well-known and beloved Edward N. Griffin admirably rendered pompous General Northrup, while Donald Enoch presented loyal Major Blent of the Palace Guard. Disappointed in his suit for Princess Anne's hand, Raymond A. Green, as Prince William of Guck, displayed stateliness and grace. Francesco Argento fitted well into the part of Laker, an anarchist of fervor and zeal.

Gladys Cunningham and Adele Loysen, as Ladies-in-Waiting to Her Majesty; and Beverly Wilson and Lucius Jones, as soldiers, filled in well the background of non-speaking actors.

HISTORY OF THE SENIOR CLASS

LEAVING the scene of past triumphs and happy associations, we, the class of Nineteen Thirty-seven, close the final chapter of our high school career. Following is an account of our achievements, to be judged by those whom it may concern.

In the midst of the customary misunderstandings, errors, and general confusion, we started on our new life as Sophomores. A class of our calibre, however, could not long remain groping. From our ranks soon rose leaders from whom we chose our class officers in January. Dick Whitney was elected president; Gerry Wisbach, vice-president; Marcelia Rennard, secretary; and Chester Newey, treasurer.

Acquaintanceships which ripened into firm friendships were formed at the annual Sophomore dance, which was a success in every way. Talent was brought to the fore at the Sophomore Prize-Speaking Contest. Natalie Salter and Richard Lovell were the two winners. The last event of the year was the election of Junior class officers. Robert Bishop was our president; Marcelia Rennard, vice-president; Janet Merrill, secretary; and Barclay Feather, treasurer.

Our Junior year found us completely accustomed to our environment and taking a prominent part in all school activities despite, in most cases, an increased amount of studies.

Many of our members were outstanding in athletics, while two had important roles in the Drama Club play. Robert Nolan, a Junior, carried off the honors in the Junior-Senior Prize-Speaking Contest sponsored by the English Club. The class dance, the Feminine Follies, provided entertainment and enjoyment for a large group.

SENIOR EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

THE last year, as always, replete with the accompanying festivities, was the best. Our officers for 1936-1937 were Dick Whitney, president; Chester Newey, first vice-president; Gerry Wisbach, second vice-president; Marcelia Rennard, secretary; and Leonard LeSourd, treasurer. Barclay Feather was elected president of the Associates; Chester Newey, boys' vice-president; Barbara Bancroft, girls' vice-president. Two Juniors, Beverly Booth and Ted Duffy, were chosen clerk and treasurer respectively.

"Libel," a Broadway success produced for the first time by an amateur group, was given in January by the Senior class. This stirring court-room drama, ably coached by Miss Haworth, fulfilled all expectations. Gordon French, Evelyn Waddell, Leon Lipson, Bernard Ericson, and Robert Nolan were excellent in the leading roles, while the minor players demonstrated dramatic ability as well.

In sports, the various teams acquitted themselves creditably with special praise again due the track team, whose season was almost as successful as that of last year.

The Newtonite, under the direction of Richard Lovell, reported all the school news exhaustively, besides exhibiting considerable literary talent.

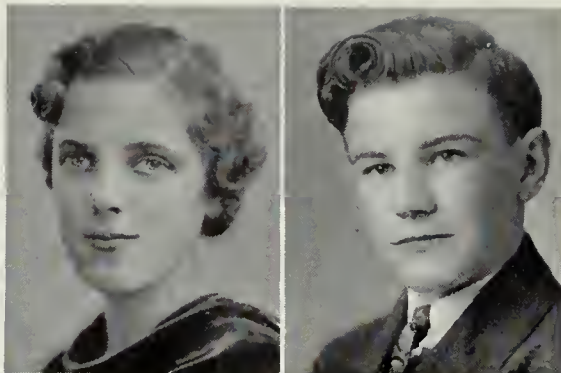

In the spring the Drama Club presented "Three-Cornered Moon," a comedy with witty dialogue. William Copeland, Jack Perry, Ann Reynolds, a Junior, and Louise Mann excelled in the chief roles, while those in the supporting cast outdid themselves.

Senior Night, continued because of its popularity last year, and the Senior Prom brought the social season to a brilliant conclusion.

The National Honor Society, composed during this year of selected members of our class, carried on its work unobtrusively, but efficiently.

To our teachers, who have given us their loyal and considerate co-operation throughout our high school years, we owe a debt of gratitude which can be paid only by fulfillment of their faith in our ability.

Thus the history of the eventful era of the Class of Nineteen Thirty-seven is complete. May the succeeding years bring happiness and success to us all.

JUNIOR OFFICERS

HISTORY OF THE JUNIOR CLASS

THIS year has found the Junior class well established in the life of Newton High School, having successfully passed through the maze of new rules and strange regulations marking our timid entrance.

Following our Sophomore Acquaintance Dance in the early fall, we elected our class officers: President, William Johnston; Vice-President, Paul Robey; Secretary, Beverly Booth; Treasurer, Donald Bail. These were formally introduced to us by Miss Riley, our class adviser, at the Sophomore Prize-Speaking Contest in February. This, marking the first use of original essays in the oratorical contest, was won by Juliette Harvey and Lee Pattison.

Our excellence has been prominently marked, not only in scholastic records but also in extra-curricular activities. Many Juniors were on The Newtonite staff, while the club records show we have been taking a deep interest there. One of our members, Ann Reynolds, played the difficult role of leading lady in the annual Drama Club play, "Three-Cornered Moon." We also furnished much material for the athletic teams. Then, too, our class dance was a socially satisfying and efficiently managed gathering.

Our officers, elected in the latter part of our Sophomore year, are: President, Juliette Harvey; Vice-President, Robert Myers; Secretary, Ernest Colantonio; Treasurer, Doris Mergendahl.

Surveying our past record of participation and high standing, it is with no little feeling of assurance and hopefulness that we, the class of '38, look forward to a successful senior year.

THE NEWTONIAN

THIS year's Newtonian staff, with the advantage of the experience of twenty-seven previous administrative groups, here presents to you the result of its labor. Under the able leadership of editor-in-chief, Jane Dealy, the fundamental purpose of this publication has been carried out: that is, to leave with the graduating class a vivid reminder of the days spent at Newton High School.

In an amplification of this primary design, some innovations of last year have been continued. These include Sophomore and Junior class statistics; also more photographs, such as those of home room manager and representatives to the legislature. This year's Newtonian assembly, an annual affair welcomed by the student body, was received with unusual eagerness. Modeled on the plan of the "March of Time" program, it humorously portrayed high lights of the school year in which the annual played an important role.

The predominating theme of this year book is to present the school, in all its numerous activities, to a visitor from our neighboring planet, Mars. An outstanding addition is the photomontage consisting of glimpses, both humorous and serious, of student life.

To you, then, Martian visitors and readers, the 1936-1937 staff of the Newtonian, under the expert guidance of Mr. Sterling Williams, offers this volume as the result of its efforts to make it the most outstanding of the long line of Newtonians.

THE NEWTONITE

Editor-in-Chief, RICHARD LOVELL
Faculty Advisers, LESTER WILLIAMS, CARL BIRMINGHAM, FLORA SMITH

VOLUME XV of The Newtonite made many improvements in long-followed customs. While no radically new features appeared, old methods were definitely modernized under the editorship of Richard Lovell.

Among improvements was the attempt at more balanced layout on all pages and a presentation of a complete picture of school activity. The "Feature Page," while abandoning the weekly "Newton Nite News," has included many popular columns, such as "Flagg Stones" and the "Agony Column." The "Supplement" and "Literary Pages" have been distinctive, although for different reasons. The "Sport Page" has had much more care given to layout and has included accurate reports of many girls' sports. "Sports Topics" has viewed, in a fresh and vigorous style, many events in the changing scenes of sport. An unusual number of sports' action-pictures were published. Much credit for their assistance is due the faculty advisers: "Publication," Lester Williams; "Business," Carl Birmingham; "Literary," Flora Smith.

The Newtonite charms for distinguished service to the paper were awarded to the following staff members: Theodore Barnett, Earle Carleton, Jane Dealy, Barclay Feather, Allan Gordon, Leon Lipson, Stanton Loring, James Martin, Richard Massell, Elmer Ross, Rosamond Simpkins, Stuart Stern, Hugh Tomb, and Evelyn Waddell.

THE 1936-1937 "ORANGE BOOK"

THE "Orange Book," expertly directed by Miss Caroline M. Doonan and Miss Katherine Curtis, celebrated its 15th anniversary by increasing its circulation one hundred copies. Through the medium of this compact, complete manual, the athletic teams were able to keep track of last year's records, the Legislature succeeded in following the Constitution, and new pupils discovered clubs and learned school regulations.

The staff was fortunate in having as one of its members an amateur photographer, Walworth Williams, who took several pictures of the school, two of which were chosen to be placed in the front of the book. The cover designed by Olive Cunningham was chosen from a group submitted to Arthur Stanwood, the Art Editor.

Those who undertook the work of reporting the school's organizations and activities were Ann Sanguinetti, Geraldine Wisbach, and Robert Patey; sports: Earl Carleton, Fiora Mariotti, Rosamond Simpkins, Walworth Williams, and Robert Williamson. The typists who prepared the manual for the printer were Mary Byrne and Eleanor Morse. Those in charge of selling the book were John Perkins, Jack Perry, his Assistant-Business Manager, Allen Gordon, and Walworth Williams.

The staff sincerely hopes that next year's "Orange Book" will enjoy an even greater success.

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

THE Executive Council of Newton High School is composed primarily of student and faculty representatives from each of the eight different administrative boards of the school associates. Its authority extends to such matters as the granting of charters to new clubs, the levying of taxes, making of appropriations, the initiation and also approval of all regular legislation, the passing of any emergency legislation, and the formulation of the policies of the administrative boards. In general, the Council is in control of student activities. The Executive Council's membership for the year 1936-1937 is given below.

THE LEGISLATURE

THE LEGISLATURE is the representative governing body of the school, and as such has been primarily responsible for many improvements in this institution. It is composed of representatives, two elected from each Senior home room, one from each Junior room, and one for every two Sophomore rooms. The President of the Newton High School Associates presides at the monthly meetings of these youthful solons.

Much of the less conspicuous business of our school is transacted by eight administrative boards, the most important of which are the Board of Finance, the Publications Board, and Civic Affairs Board. There is also a board for Boys' Athletics and one for Girls' Athletics. The remaining boards attend to matters of Dramatics, Music, and Social Affairs.

This year the Legislature approved charters for a Science Activities Club and a Girls' Knitting Club, and also voted for certain changes in letter requirements for boys participating in football and track. As a result of persistent agitation on the part of its members, an improvement was brought about in our cafeteria by fostering a spirit of more co-operation on the part of the students.

THE ASSOCIATES

President, BARCLAY FEATHER

Boys' Vice-President, CHESTER NEWBY

Clerk, BEVERLY BOOTH

Treasurer, THEODORE DUFFEY

Girls' Vice-President, BARBARA BANCROFT

THE constitutional convention of 1924 gave birth to the Newton High School Associates, in which organization every enrolled student is a member. Chosen according to population, the members of the Legislature, which meets once each month, represent the Associates in their government.

Among the duties of the president is that of presiding at meetings of the Legislature and certain assemblies, appointing the administrative boards, and acting as an ex-officio member on committees of the Legislature. In his absence, the boys' vice-president is at the head of the Legislature, and presides over special assemblies; also, he is the nominal presiding officer at the boys' assembly. The girls' vice-president takes charge of the girls' assembly; and, if both president and boys' vice-president are absent, she shoulders their duties. The rolls and minutes of the Legislature are under the direction of the clerk, as is all school correspondence.

Both vice-presidents are members of the Civic Affairs Board, which supervises the Christmas Dinner Box Campaign, directed by the Legislature. The Orange Book, guide of the school, is also under the sponsorship of the Legislature.

Measures accepted by the Legislature receive final approval in the Executive Council, consisting of some student and some faculty members.

THE ORANGE SHIELD

LAST year the Civics Board initiated and organized the Orange Shield. The aim of this group is to maintain and further, in Newton High School, the traditions of honesty and fair dealing. Despite the fact that the members, chosen for outstanding achievement and interest in school affairs, are named by the Civics Board alone, some still hope that a place in this society may be considered a very high honor. For the year of 1936-1937 the members from each class were the following:

Seniors: Vincent Anderson, Martha Anderson, Constance Ballou, Barbara Bancroft, Jeanne Budding, Peggy Burkhard, Barbara Collins, Jane Dealy, Mary Doyle, Barclay Feather, Charles Furneaux, Gladys Greenbaum, Ann Hitchcock, Leonard LeSourd, Leon Lipson, Richard Lovell, Janet Merrill, Chester Newey, John Perry, Marcelia Rennard, Allison Thompson, Bradford Thompson, Hugh Tomb, Richard Whitney, Geraldine Wisbach.

Juniors: Donald Bail, Harry Bond, Beverly Booth, Virginia Brown, Irene Butchart, Ernest Colantonio, James Dealy, Ellis Dierdorff, Donald Emig, Nancy Flagg, Shirley Fuller, Dorothy Gardner, Juliette Harvey, Frank Hines, William Johnston, Eugene Leger, Doris Mergendahl, Robert Myers, Paul Newcomb, Ann Reynolds, Philip Richards, Norman Ross, Fred Sera, Grace VerPlanck, Enrico Visco, Ann Wright.

THE NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Faculty Adviser, MISS RIDEOUT

THE National Honor Society in Newton High School is a chapter of a national organization established for the purpose of honoring those pupils who best uphold the standard and ideals of our school. It is comprised of five per cent of the Junior Class and fifteen per cent of the Senior Class, chosen by the faculty from the upper twenty-five per cent of each class on the basis of character, service, leadership, and scholarship. The new members are inducted into the society in the spring of each year by a ceremony which is so widely known for its impressiveness that our chapter has been asked to give a demonstration of it to aid other cities and towns which have recently added chapters to their schools.

This is not an organization for social purposes, but, under the guidance of Miss Rideout, the faculty adviser, it renders as much service to the school as possible. Some of its members are helpers in the building offices, they act as guides on Parents' Night, directing our visitors to the proper rooms, and they form the nucleus of the lunchroom squad. Membership in this society is one of the highest honors the school can offer.

THE POST-GRADUATE CLASS

THE Post-Graduates are a truly privileged and select group at Newton High School. Their membership is never above fifty, and usually dwindles as the year passes. They are permitted to return to the High School for another year, because they lack the requirements to enter their chosen higher institutions of learning. Next year they will enter these with a feeling of security and a firm step, for they have the excellent foundation of a high school training enhanced by a further year of study.

Due chiefly to the fact that its aims are scholastic, the Post-Graduate class participates in few extra-curricular activities. However, it takes part in all musical organizations at school, such as the band, the orchestra, and the glee clubs. It also shows zealous interest in the affairs of other groups, and among the supporters of athletic or dramatic events one can always find numerous Post-Graduates.

Although any recognition of Miss Leathers does not appear until the bottom of this article, she unobtrusively makes everyone realize that she is at the head of the Post-Graduates. Under the official title of Faculty Adviser, she conscientiously guides them throughout the year.

THE SENIOR PLAY

IN January, the Senior class became the first amateur group to present "Libel," a play popular in New York last year. This drama, a serious one, involves the trial of a newspaper in a case of a libel allegedly made against Sir Mark Loddon, admirably portrayed by Gordon French. Leon Lipson, as the Gazette lawyer, was convincingly sarcastic and forceful; while Loddon's advocate was a kindly, humorous gentleman in the person of Bernard Ericson. The respective assistant attorneys were well done by Stanton Loring and Malcolm Hardy, as were the Canadian soldier, portrayed by Edward Wallace; the oft-married lower-class English girl, by Ann Sanguinetti; the heavily accented Belgian doctor, whose French was quite fluent, played by John MacNayr. Robert Nolan's pompous but humorous judge was well received. Evelyn Waddell creditably executed the role of Lady Loddon. Jury, both sides' friends, and attendants provided the living background for the scene.

We commend Miss Haworth, the coach, not only for the success of one of the most difficult plays ever given here, but also because every word was heard all over the auditorium. Mr. Peterson and the stage crew worked long to create the accurate setting upon which the realistic presentation depended.

DRAMA CLUB

THE Drama Club is one of the most popular and most valuable organizations in the school. The principal production of the year was Gertrude Tonkogy's "Three-Cornered Moon," starring Ann Reynolds and William Copeland. George Jamison, '36, and George Kenngott, '36, addressed the club at the October meeting and presented some worthwhile points on makeup and facial expression. In November Mrs. Elicker gave a selected group of short monologues. The Annual Christmas Party for all was held in the Assembly Hall, and the Drama Club presented "Dust of the Road." At the February meeting a short play called "The Curtain" was given in the Assembly Hall. Susan Glaspell's "Trifles" was performed in April. Ann Sanguinetti coached the English Club play. At each meeting Stuart Stern gave reviews of current film and stage successes.

The Drama Club workshop functioned silently throughout the entire year and were busy at all plays. The workshop is made up of four general committees; makeup, property, costume, and stage, all indispensable to the club. Eleanor Townsend served as chairman of the workshop groups and Miriam Ziegler was Secretary-Treasurer.

Through these varied presentations and the helpfulness of the committees, the Drama Club has this past season enriched the dramatic versatility of our school.

DRAMA CLUB PLAY

THIS year's major Drama Club presentation, "Three-Cornered Moon," was enacted on March 5th and 6th. Though a stream-lined farce, it was a no less difficult undertaking than plays of former season.

All the action occurred in the household of the scatter-brained Rimplegar family, centering about the principal character, Elizabeth, which Ann Reynolds portrayed with versatility. The other members of the well-known triangle were Donald, an aesthetic novelist, played by Jack Perry; and Allan Stevens, a young doctor who was the sole stabilizing influence in the hectic household, convincingly portrayed by William Copeland. Jack Koughan played the part of Ed; Stuart Stern, that of Kenneth; and James Jamison, that of Douglas. Mrs. Rimplegar, who presided over her children in a motherly (if not efficient) way was expertly played by Louise Mann. After Mrs. Rimplegar lost all the family wealth in the stock market, her impetuous children took over the finances. Elizabeth sustained the general morale and Stevens supervised matters; Donald "just went on dreaming." In the end Elizabeth was attracted to Stevens, Donald walked out, and the curtain descended as the lovers embraced amid domestic tumult.

The success of the production was attributable in large measure to the invaluable aid of the stage committee, the Drama Club Workshop, and Miss Wetherbee.

THE ENGLISH CLUB

THE English Club, oldest club in the school, was organized in 1912 by Professor Charles Swain Thomas, head of the English department at that time. This organization, open to all eligible Juniors and Seniors, has always exemplified the best of Newton High School's traditions, and has one of the largest memberships of the school's clubs.

Among the speakers at the regular meetings were Mrs. Walter Jamison, Mrs. Francis Flagg, Dr. George Davis, and Spencer Beresford, a Harvard University student. The club was the guest of the Drama Club at its Christmas play. At each meeting Theodora Klein reviewed some outstanding book.

At the annual Senior assembly, the club presented Rollo Walter Brown, author and brilliant Lecturer, who spoke on his personal friend, Edward Arlington Robinson, the poet. To celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary, the January meeting was in the form of a tea, with the founder, Charles Swain Thomas, as guest speaker. All programs were planned by Helen Spence and committee.

The club also sponsored the annual Prize-Speaking Contest and one-act play, "The Tantrum," and the Essay and Verse Contest. As is customary, a sum of money was given to the school library.

ENGLISH CLUB PLAY

AFTER the Junior-Senior Prize-Speaking Contest on April 2, the English Club presented its annual one-act comedy to a large and appreciative audience. Thanks to the latent abilities displayed by the cast, the play, entitled "The Tantrum," was a riotous success. Ann Sanguinetti showed that she was an able coach, while Miss Wetherbee added her individual touches.

The incomparable Bob Nolan, as Tim, decided that he would not be outdone by a cousin of his when it came to throwing "tantrums." So, when his cousin Geneva (Helen Spence) came to visit for the summer, he practiced his little pranks on her. Tim's sister, Bunny (Elaine Coyne), had her romance with Allan Kennedy (William Copeland) almost broken up when Geneva continually made eyes at Allan. However; little Timmy finally won out and had "Jenny" in the kitchen, washing dishes, and the Bunny-Allen romance again ran smoothly.

Grace VerPlanck and Junie Buttrick as Paula and Roger made the ideal married couple, while Barbara Levine's "Aunt Linnie" was convincing. Also in the cast were Jane Underwood, Peggy Clayton, Lyman Robinson, and David Burtwell.

The success of this fine production is attributable also to the numerous and efficient committees and their able faculty supervisors.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PRIZE-SPEAKING CONTEST

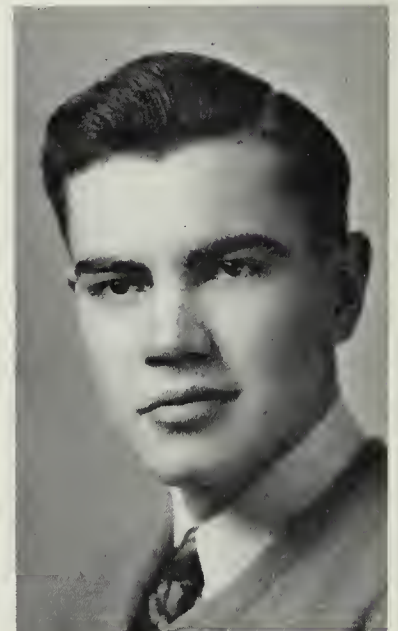

Natalie Salter, '37, and Leon Lipson, '37, were victorious in the annual English Club Junior-Senior Prize-Speaking Contest held on April 2. The other contestants were Evelyn Waddell, Lois Currie, Juliette Harvey, Malcolm Hardy, Bruce George, and Robert Myers.

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE PRIZE-SPEAKING CONTEST

The annual Freshman-Sophomore Prize-Speaking and Essay Contest, sponsored by Alpha Beta, was held on February 10. Aura Kern, '39, and William Stark, '39, were the winners. The other participants were Barbara Tower, Barbara Beyer, Marjorie Wood, Daniel Needham, Paul Crocker, and Edmund Miller.

FOUNDED in 1921 by Samuel P. Thurber, Alpha Beta is a Sophomore English Club. As its chief activity Alpha Beta sponsors a sophomore prize-speaking contest. Until last year it was a contest in interpretative reading, as pupils memorized selections from literature and recited them before a group of judges. Last year the plan was changed, and the contestants now write their own themes and are judged on voice, stage presence, and quality of the composition itself. At a Sophomore assembly two, a boy and a girl, were chosen from the eight finalists and received awards at the March meeting of Alpha Beta.

Under the competent leadership of Miss Frances Thumin and the officers, the club has enjoyed many delightful programs. At one of the first Mr. Green gave an entertaining travel talk supplemented with moving pictures. Later, Mr. Lamoine Boyle, writer of short stories as well as a member of the faculty, told of many of his experiences in that field. At another meeting Mrs. Lorraine Holmes spoke about her experiences on a trip out West. Before Christmas the Drama Club entertained Alpha Beta with one of its incomparable plays.

THE NEOPHYTES

THE NEOPHYTES is the popular Sophomore dramatic club. Membership is gained by try-outs held in the fall of the year, when participants are judged on their ability and general interpretation of their selections.

The club program consists of a speaker or a play at each monthly meeting. This year, "He and She" and "Two Crooks and a Lady" were the featured plays. At one of the meetings Miss Mary Dacey, a radio artist, gave an illustrated lecture on make-up; and, on another occasion, Mr. Cutting, one of our English teachers, gave a short talk on "Why Produce Plays?"

The Neophytes annually sponsor a Sophomore assembly. This year on St. Patrick's Day we shared the program with the Puppeteers. Our production was a one-act Irish play entitled "Spreading the News," written by Lady Gregory. Felix Rogers and Marjorie Wood starred in this presentation and were supported by an excellent cast.

The club members voted to buy a set of books of one-act plays to present to the school library.

THE Tusitala Club, now in its second year, continues to champion creative writing. New members were chosen in October and February by merit of their manuscripts.

Our illuminating meetings were heightened, not only by our singular members but also by the singular adviser, Miss Helen E. Nute. Works submitted were varied in nature and often subject to hearty discussion. The Newtonite's feature page was once composed by the club, proving that many hands mean better work. Single articles in the school's paper were also edited.

Among the seasons' worthy achievements are the club's booklet, The Inking; and the appearance of a play written by one of our former members, Porter Jarrell, and produced at the Drama Club's final meeting held in conjunction with the Tusitala Club. Also for the second successive year, prize-winners in the English Club's Essay and Verse Contest emerged from our ranks.

Our president snapped a verbal whip on the more responsive parts of Pegasus, and creative literature has moved at a fast clip.

A spirited trip to the spirited Mikado concluded our triumphant season. We have had an enjoyable, profitable year and bear all promise of having one equally successful following our next enrollment.

LE CERCLE FRANÇAIS

LE CERCLE FRANÇAIS aims to help its members practice speaking French and learn more about France and her people. Students who have had at least one full year of the subject are eligible, and members find the club a most interesting, cultural, and practical organization.

This year the club has enjoyed a variety of programs. At the first meeting the president, Constance Ballou, explained the purpose and activities of the club for the ensuing year. At the next meeting two amusing plays were given: the first, "Le Medecin Mystifié," in which Ruth Carter, Jane Leighton, and Winona Starbird took part; the second, "La Poupée," in which Eileen O'Brien and Eleanor Shea shared honors. At the same meeting Martha Lane entertained the members with a short talk on "Le Midi de la France."

At another meeting the club had the special privilege of listening to an informal talk by a charming native French girl, Evelyn Shaw, who is spending this year in the United States. Then a French silent film, very courteously loaned by the French Line of Boston, was enjoyed by those attending the February meeting. This film portrayed Northern and Central France. In general, French songs and games are a regular feature of the club activities throughout the year.

THE Spanish Club, founded by Senora Marion Haslem, is now under the able supervision of Senor Francisco Argento. Because there are comparatively few pupils taking Spanish, the membership is naturally small, but this does not detract from the club's important activities. The meetings are conducted entirely in Spanish, thus requiring a great deal of preparation and planning on the part of those participating in the programs.

During the year many short plays were given, in order to better acquaint the members with the customs of the Spanish-speaking countries and people, and the colloquialisms of their language. This year we were very fortunate in having several members who had just returned from Panama. They gave several unusual reports concerning that country; these talks were thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended.

In December the group was the guest of the Drama Club at the production of the annual Christmas play. One of the last meetings was a party, at which everyone had a most enjoyable time.

The past year has been a successful one for the Spanish Club, and all its members have profited both in knowledge and entertainment.

THE GERMAN CLUB

THE German Club of 1936-1937 has been a successful continuation of the four previous years. Advanced and elementary students are at all times welcome.

In October the meeting was given over to a most interesting talk on "Germany and the Olympics," by Mr. Drake of the school guidance department. He has spent several summers in Germany with a group eager to see the country and learn about the points of interest. The club greatly enjoyed the privilege of having Mr. Drake with them at their first meeting. For the November gathering the club visited the Harvard Germanic Museum, an excursion which proved both entertaining and beneficial. The joining of the German Club with other organizations in December, as guests of the Drama Club, provided a most delightful meeting. Procedure for the remaining months was formulated in the January meeting. We were fortunate to see more films about "Germany and the Olympics" at a later gathering. Mr. Packard showed some striking pictures concerning this topic. The annual dinner party and trip to the Fine Arts Theatre was a huge success.

It is sincerely hoped that next year will be as thoroughly enjoyable to the members of the German Club as the past one has been.

ALPHA GAMMA TAU, the Newton High School Mathematics Club, is an organization of long standing, being the second club organized in the school. This year there has been an exceptional group of programs. One of the most outstanding meetings was the tea given for all the mathematics teachers in the Junior High Schools and Senior High School. Most of the work of the club deals with the recreational aspects of mathematics.

One meeting was spent in playing mathematical games, which tested both speed and accuracy. The club has also heard talks on various topics related to the subject. A trip to the Warner Memorial Theatre in Worcester was planned for the April meeting. This entertainment, plus the annual Alpha Gamma Tau picnic in May, brought to a close a profitable association which has been enjoyed by all the members and has furthered general interest in the mathematical work of the school.

The club has an enrollment of about fifty Juniors and Seniors. All members must have received honor marks in mathematics the previous year in order to be invited to join and must keep this standard of work at that level throughout the school year.

SOCIAL STUDIES CLUB

THE Social Studies Club is open to all those Juniors and Seniors who are at the time taking, or who have taken, social studies at Newton High School, and who are interested in supplementing their regular class work in this subject.

This group, first organized in 1926 through the efforts of Mr. Koughan, is one of the largest here at school. The chief aim is service to Newton High School and to the club members, of whom there were fifty-two for the year 1936-1937.

The activities of the club, directed and supervised by a program committee, have been planned with the purpose of assuring as much student participation as possible, with the admirable result that over half of the members have had definite parts in one or more of the following programs: a cartoon contest based upon the Presidential campaign; a visit to places of historical interest in Newton; "The Man on the Street" radio hour; two short plays, political satires; a club forum and open debate on the The Supreme Court; a trip to the Christian Science Monitor publishing house in Boston.

BOYS' DEBATING CLUB

President, EDWARD WALLACE
Vice-President, SIDNEY GUBERMAN

Secretary, RICHARD MASSELL

Faculty Adviser, MR. HOLMES

THE aim of the officers, this year, was to increase interest in debating throughout the school and to augment the membership. With these objectives in mind, a debate was scheduled in February with the Girls' Library Club, the boys arguing the negative of the question, Resolved: "That Women Are Human Beings."

Another interesting contest was the one against the faculty, represented by Messrs. Cutting and Taylor, on the topic of the relative school importance to the individual of school versus non-scholastic influences.

Seven members represented the society before the Men's Club of the First Church of Newton, giving both sides of the teachers' oath question.

The club held two interscholastic debates, and by coincidence both were on the same subject, Resolved: "That Electric Utilities Be Governmentally Owned and Operated." Opposition was provided by the debating clubs of Norwood High and Boston College High.

Unlike other debating societies, the policy of the Newton High Debating Club is to give, to every member who desires it, an opportunity to represent the club in at least one debate.

The boys have been aided greatly during the six years of the club's existence by Mr. Frederick Holmes, able faculty adviser.

CAMERA CLUB

THIS year's program consisted mainly of speakers who discussed topics relating to the technical side of photography. Some featured speakers were Mr. Louis of the Cedric Chase Laboratories Inc., of Waltham; Mr. Wyerick of the Alfred Brown Studio, Brookline; and Mr. Sheldon of the Eastman Kodak concern.

A regular monthly contest was carried on throughout the year. All of these included general snapshots, with the exception of one exclusively for the portrayal of animals. A novel meeting, conducted by two members, was the improvisation of a dark room, through which the members travelled and saw the complete development of a picture. Several members, during the month of March, secured pictures of happenings in and about the school; these are included in the year book. The club held its concluding meeting out of doors, where swimming, tennis, and other sports were enjoyed. The price of admission to this event was a camera with which everyone had to take pictures.

This marked the tenth year in the club's history, under the excellent guidance of Mr. Sterling Williams. Surpassing all previous years, the total membership was over ninety.

THE Microphone Club, relatively new to this school, was launched on its brilliant career in the fall of 1936. The club's main interests lean towards the broadcasting field of radio, technical points being eliminated. Enrollment is unlimited, yet tryouts for membership are necessary. Naturally, the judges are primarily concerned with the voice of the contestants.

The first broadcast this year, over Station WEEI and under the direction of Norman Ross, consisted of a satirical skit by Nancy Flagg on the "Flight of the Wright Brothers" and an interview with Mr. Hughen of the American Airlines Incorporated. The next broadcast, with John Wright as chairman, introduced the origin of Civil War songs. Many of the skits which were used in this program, heard over Station WBZ, were written by June Nesbitt. Bernard Ericson was in charge of the climaxing half-hour broadcast given over the WBZ channels. The program presented a heated discussion of "Gratuitous State Provision for Higher Education." At one meeting, John MacNamara, NBC announcer and program manager of WBZ, gave an inside story on "Opportunities for Young People in Radio Today."

During the year the club has built a studio in the basement of Building 1 to provide for rehearsals of broadcasts. With such a fine initial season, the "Mike" promises to rank high among other extra-curricular organizations.

THE PUPPETEERS

THE PUPPETEERS, a club open to the members of all classes, is a medium for exchange of ideas and experience concerning puppets. Now in its second year, the organization plays an active and lively part in school life. The club has been fortunate in having enrolled an eager and talented group.

There is a wide field for activity, as puppetry includes not only constructing, dressing, and operating marionettes, but also stage work, such as scenery and lighting, playwriting, and the like. At the monthly meetings the club members give skits and work on the various phases of their puppet project.

For the first time the group put on a show for the school when they presented a curtain-raiser for the annual Neophyte production at a sophomore assembly. An Irish fairy tale, "The Legend of Fin M'Coul," was dramatized by club members, who adeptly manipulated their puppets. Staging this show was an interesting project for the Puppeteers and gave others an idea of what has been accomplished by the group.

The club has profited by its experience of the past year and hopes to continue its satisfactory growth and effectiveness.

FOR fourteen years the Library Club has been of service to the school and has provided useful and really enjoyable work for its twenty-five members. At the end of each year fifteen new girls are elected to take membership; five Seniors and ten Juniors. With the old members and Miss Bigelow, the librarian and faculty adviser, these students in study periods, and after school do general library work such as: filing newspapers, recording over-due books, arranging and cataloguing new material, selecting information for scrap books, and making displays of literature concerning the meetings of the Newton Forum. Each year, besides its customary activities, the club attends one of current plays of the year — the choice of the members. This season, at the suggestion of the Boys' Debating Club, several members from both organizations debated the question, Resolved: "Women are Human Beings." The Library Club was victorious, and proudly so. The group's activities were climaxed by a hilarious picnic with these vanquished debaters.

Every year the club, as do many other school organizations, makes a gift to the Library. This season a year's subscription to "Life" was presented.

THE HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

THE Home Economics Club has two wonderful faculty advisers, Miss Gladys F. Davis and Miss Alice A. Alden, both of whom have constantly stimulated interest in the club among the girls of the Home Economics Department. The Home Economics Club has had some very entertaining meetings, enlivened by speakers, dancers, parties, and trips.

One of the outstanding speakers was Miss Elizabeth L. Mayo, of our faculty. Miss Mayo spoke about her trip to the Olympics and showed some fascinating slides. The program was concluded with the showing of menus from the boats on which Miss Mayo traveled. Another speaker was one of the faculty advisers, Miss Alice A. Alden, who spoke on "Fancy Work from the Early Centuries." This talk was illustrated with some beautiful pictures of the handwork of former periods. The club also took a trip to the Hood Milk Company's Plant. The girls were shown all the unusual machines used at the establishment. A delightful January program consisted of dances performed by Genevieve and Raymond Tocci. Afterwards, refreshments were served to all present.

The Sophomores and Juniors are looking forward to next year's meetings, which promise to be fully as eventful as those of the past season.

DURING the 1936-1937 season the Commercial Club held a most successful year with a membership of sixty-four. This is exclusively a girls' club composed of Junior and Senior Office Training girls and a few chosen Sophomores.

The club began the year by hearing Mrs. E. O. Palmer give a very beneficial and inspiring talk on personality. Mrs. Palmer was given a lovely plant to show the club's gratitude for the enjoyable time she provided. They also enjoyed Miss Grace Haywood, New York representative of the Katherine Gibbs' School, who talked on "Developing Personal Aptitudes." Our own track coach, Mr. Enoch, showed the group of pictures he had taken of the Grand Canyon, the natural bridge of Virginia, and the Western part of the country.

A trip to the H. P. Hood and Sons' plant in Charlestown has been planned and a small group intend to visit a large bank in Boston to see the vaults closed. The club also sponsored a typewriting contest which was held this spring.

Under the leadership of the president, Mary Sheehan, the club has enjoyed one of the most successful years in its history.

THE GIRLS' OUTING CLUB

A GROUP of thirty enthusiastic members, under the capable direction of Miss Adele Loysen, has added another successful year to its record. Those desirous of entering the club fill out questionnaires concerning their participation in athletics and other outside activities. The first twenty-five Juniors and Seniors receiving the highest ratings are admitted. Rigid rulings concerning attendance necessitate the presence of members at all meetings and outings. In order that the club may be run wholly by its members, the group is divided into committees which plan their particular activities each month. Exceptionally attractive programs were carried out this year. In honor of the new members, a get-acquainted tea was held at the home of one of the members. On the first outing, held in December, a bicycle trip to Wellesley was taken. In conjunction with the boys' Ski Club, the girls attended a moving picture concerning Swiss skiing. Other active outings we have enjoyed included skating, bowling, horse-back riding, and swimming.

Not only does the Outing Club develop good sportsmanship, but it also affords its members healthful recreation.

THE Newton High School Cavalry Club, composed of a score of able young horsemen, has just completed another successful year. Formed in 1935, this hard-riding organization has steadily grown in popularity until this year's membership more than trebled that of last year.

The club, democratic in nature, with no membership restrictions other than eligibility and sex, is able to secure a maximum amount of riding at a minimum expense to members. Participation in club riding is optional, and as members have the privilege of riding weekly or even monthly, the small expense involved is easily adaptable financially to a majority.

The aim of this group is to enable boys interested in this activity to develop their equestrian ability under experienced guidance at the low rates secured by group arrangement, thereby deriving not only useful training and body coordination, but also wholesome recreation. Riding en masse on consecutive Saturday mornings during the fall and early winter, club members soon began to reap the benefits of their activity in renewed interest and understanding of the art of manege.

If a majority of members desire that polo become a regular feature of the Saturday morning sessions, arrangements can be made to accommodate this demand.

SCIENCE ACTIVITIES CLUB

THE Science Activities Club was organized in December, 1936, as a result of interest shown by the pupils of the science classes of Room 235. The object of the club is to bring out the natural scientific abilities of the members, and to aid members who find work in science difficult. We also feel that such work will do much to form hobbies which may be of great pleasure and profit in later life.

Many of the club's activities are carried out informally in small groups working after school. Regular meetings are divided into two classes, business and program. The more formal programs consist of special demonstrations, lectures, or moving pictures. At one program meeting we had a moving picture study, supplemented by a lecture, on power. Another program resulted in a study of mining mechanics and a micro-projection of insects and their relation to diseases.

The club has featured one unique activity. The members, acting as sponsors, selected a subject to which a week of study was devoted in regular classes. Directed by the faculty adviser, the members collected material, worked up demonstrations, and presented the subject, which was "The Application of Science to the Detection and Prevention of Crime."

THE KNITTING CLUB

Faculty Adviser, MRS. BENNETT NEWCOMB

THE KNITTING CLUB was organized during the year 1936-1937 for the benefit of Junior and Senior girls interested in furthering their knowledge of knitting. It is intended to offer an opportunity for beginners to learn the art, as well as to supply the more advanced knitters with new ideas.

Each club meeting will be definitely devoted to a project, which will increase in difficulty as the year progresses. The various stitches essential to the making of a garment will be taught — plain knitting, purling, ribbing, increasing, decreasing, and taking of measurements. Knitting books and patterns as well as samples of the various kinds of yarn will be available to members.

It is hoped that each member will then select some garment to make at her leisure, which will serve to demonstrate what she has learned, and that at the end of the year an exhibition or style show may be given to indicate what has been accomplished.

One meeting a month is the club rule; but owing to the fact that beginners often need help between the regular meetings, an optional one is held occasionally on a date determined at the club meetings.

THE VARSITY GLEE CLUB

OUR Glee Club has had an unusually worthwhile year. Its seventy songsters have shown sincere interest in the work, have had much enjoyment, and have accomplished excellent and gratifying results.

As in former years, the Glee Club sang at the Christmas assembly and, divided in groups, sang carols in the corridors of our three buildings on the day preceding the Christmas vacation. It also provided the musical program for one of the Sunday afternoon Forum meetings, and was highly praised. It again took part in the annual outdoor musical festival, singing as a group and in combination with the chorus.

Leader of this talented organization is Mr. Charles Harrington, who for many years has given his time and energy to similar worthy projects. It was he who was almost wholly responsible for the raising of money for the purchase of the new Hammond Electric Organ, which is used to accompany the Glee Club at the outdoor concert and for private instruction of pupils interested in organ.

One Hundred Twenty-six

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

NEW this year to Newton High is the Boys' Glee Club, which contains about forty boys, most of whom sing in the varsity mixed Glee Club. This group of male singers has done much toward the advancement of standards of music at Newton High under the new system of school music.

Leader of this new movement is Mr. Haydn M. Morgan, successor to Mr. Edward N. Griffin who, for thirteen years, gave musical instruction throughout the different schools of Newton. Mr. Morgan, previous to January 4, 1937, was for eight years supervisor of music at Grand Rapids, Michigan, a city well-known for its outstanding program of music. Prior to that he served in communities in Wisconsin, West Virginia, and Ohio. Vice-President of the North Central Music Educators' Conference, he comes with a fine record of instruction in vocal and instrumental music.

The club sang before a combined group of Kiwanis and Rotary Club members on one occasion and again before the school on April 2, at the occasion of the Junior-Senior Prize-Speaking Contest and English Club Play. At the poetry and essay assembly of April 28, and at the Pierce School the following Tuesday, these boys performed well.

To complete a short but full program they sang at the outdoor concert on June 4 and were very well received.

THE BAND

THIS year the band has performed its numerous duties well. Under the able direction of Mr. Spaulding, the season was opened with the usual home football games, also the Waltham game which was held at Waltham this year. After the football games were over, much time was spent in preparation for the Massachusetts State Contest Selections in which we had hoped to participate, but later found that this would not be possible. As usual, the band played for the Girls' Gym Meet. The peak of the year's work was the rendering of the annual Open Air Concert, which received worthy praise.

It was the good fortune of this year's band to have two of its members chosen for participation in the New England Music Festival, which was broadcast over a nation-wide hookup from Hyannis. Our drum major, Jeanne Budding, was also chosen from all of the New England high schools to give a twirling exhibition. She also gave a performance at the Rhode Island State Contest, in which she led the Pawtucket High School Band.

In all, Mr. Spaulding thinks that the Newton Band of 1937 has done excellent work and hopes that the bands of the future will do as well.

ORCHESTRA

THE Newton High School Orchestra, now under the direction of Mr. Charles R. Spaulding, has made many public appearances throughout the past year. It has been an active organization in the high school since before the permanent school records were kept. A member of one of the former orchestras was Dr. Wallace Goodrich, now director of the New England Conservatory of Music.

It has played an important part in many of the assemblies this year, as well as at other leading school functions such as plays and the Prize-Speaking Contest, at which times it has performed before enthusiastic audiences. It also gives a complimentary presentation at the outdoor concert in June.

The orchestra rehearses twice a week in school time, and credit is given towards graduation. There are approximately fifty participants, both boys and girls, all of whom desire this opportunity to practice, study, and develop their talents. Selections consist mainly of works by noted composers, as well as familiar ballads and lighter pieces, which add a great deal of distinction and feeling to the concerts. Selected groups of the orchestra have made up assemblies and the like, for the purpose of entertaining at the smaller school functions.

AVIATION CLUB

TORREY CAPO, discoverer of microfilm, and expert model builder; Arthur Hildreth, meteorologist; and Daniel Duggan, United Air Lines transport pilot were the guest speakers at the October meeting of the Aviation Club. Mr. Capo explained how this famous substance was discovered quite by accident. Mr. Hildreth told how the United States Weather Bureau gathers meteorological data so essential to safe airline operation. Pilot Duggan gave his talk on "Blind Flying," and was surprised at the promptness with which his questions concerning an airplane's position after passing through the cone of silence were answered correctly.

Other guest speakers were Traffic Manager John Wheelock, and Pilot Beekman Fairbanks from American Airways; Lieutenant Warren Sweetser, United States Marine Corps pilot; Mr. Arthur Lawrence, Secretary of the Soaring Society of America; Pilot Ralph Eames of Shobe Airlines; Pilot Theodore Brewster, American Airlines; and Bruno Marchi, ace model builder.

Diverse aviation activities were visualized by United Air Lines colored films, "Our National Parks, by Air;" Pan-American Airways talking pictures, "The Lindbergh Trail;" films depicting soaring in Germany and in the United States; and motion pictures of student-pilot training.

In order to stimulate interest in model building, the club sponsored the innovation of a model airplane meet open to all boys and girls in the Newton public schools.

STAGE COMMITTEE

THE Stage Committee is composed of a group of boys, selected from the Junior and Senior classes, who build the sets, operate the lights, and do the "dirty work" for all school dramatics. It is they who, under the competent leadership of Mr. Peterson, are responsible for the finished appearance of the stage settings at Newton. This work is by no means easy and requires a great deal of time. The only compensations members receive for their efforts are the enjoyment and experience of working together, and the satisfaction of jobs well done.

This year each of the productions required but one set, making the task a good deal easier. Nevertheless, the English court room scene of the Senior play, "Libel," presented a difficult construction problem and required a large amount of work. The many sound and stage effects in the faculty play, "The Queen's Husband," demanded careful co-operation and preparation. The set for "Three-Cornered Moon," the Drama Club play, was unique in that it consisted of a cross-section of two rooms.

The Committee may justly be proud of its accomplishments and can look back upon a successful year. However, were it not for the able guidance of Mr. Peterson and Mr. Green, such a statement would hardly be possible.

LUNCHROOM SQUAD

DURING 1936-1937, the Lunchroom Squad has operated with efficiency and a high degree of co-operation. Under the active supervision of Ann Hitchcock, who was the main factor in the selection of a squad, about eighty pupils have given the latter portion of their lunch periods in order to help keep the cafeteria in a neat condition. The ranks of the squad are filled mainly from the National Honor Society members.

These members are allowed the privilege of leaving class or study hall two minutes in advance of the other pupils in order that lunch may be purchased in sufficient time to allow the squad worker to take up his work while others are still eating their lunches. In addition to the student participation, members of the faculty are assigned to certain days in the lunchroom for any disciplinary action.

While the duty of the squad is chiefly to maintain an orderliness of floor, tables, and chairs, six or eight members look after traffic inside the building and on the grounds. The faculty supervisor, Mr. Jones, has built up a serviceable and praiseworthy organization.

HOME ROOM MANAGERS

THAT busy-looking student you used to see dashing about in a spectral swirl during home room period might well have been a home room manager. No doubt he was engaged carrying on delivering orders for tickets to some school function, or taking charge of subscription and distribution of one of the popular school publications — perhaps even a Newtonian! At any rate, due credit must be given for the most important service rendered by these worthy officers as agents between organization and student.

Each home room elects its representative by popular vote, and the honored one carries on, diligently performing his specific duties, with no other reward than the satisfaction of having been instrumental in the success of extra-curricular activities.

As a group, the managers have worked together, having met more than once for instructions. Formerly, this person carried on many ardent campaigns for sports season tickets, plays, and other school activities. The S. A. T. consolidation has greatly lessened his work. Still, he deserves much praise for his quiet bondage.

Hail to thee, worthy sprite!

We salute your freely-given service!

DR. OSCAR MARTIN

AMONG the saddest events of the year was the passing of the beloved Doctor Oscar Martin. For twenty-two years "Doc," as he was affectionately called, had served Newton High School, and at the time of his death he held three positions: faculty manager of boys' athletics, instructor of physical education, and varsity hockey coach.

Doctor Martin typified all that we want Newton High to stand for. He possessed a fighting, courageous spirit, but never had been known to lose his temper. He produced some fine hockey squads during his many seasons as coach, and his 1924 team was strong enough to win the World Schoolboy Championship. Under his direction, Newton's Gargantuan athletic system was organized.

Born in Oslo, Norway, in 1877, Doctor Martin took to the sea at an early age. A voyage across the ocean convinced him that the United States was the country for him. He came as a poor boy and worked his way first through Boston English High, then Springfield College, and finally Tufts Medical School. In 1914 he joined the Newton High faculty and remained a member for the rest of his life. His sudden death while swimming, on August 30, 1936, came as a blow to the entire school. "Doc's" kindness, helpfulness, consideration for his associates, and the work he did for the school will never be forgotten.

IN MEMORIAM

WILLIAM E. JOHNSTON

THE students of Newton High returned to school on April 12, 1937, with heavy hearts, for on the day before "Bill" Johnston, one of their respected and beloved classmates, had passed away as a result of blood poisoning. One of the most outstanding athletes in the history of the school, Bill typified, particularly to his team mates who knew him so well, an ideal high school boy. His brilliant career was unexpectedly halted, but his spirit of fair-play, perseverance, and co-operation will live on in the memory of his friends.

Bill was born in Scituate, Mass., on August 16, 1919. He moved to Newton Centre in his childhood, and later attended the Mason and Weeks schools. It was in Weeks that he distinguished himself as an athlete; for he played for three years on all the varsity teams and, in the ninth grade, was captain of all three teams — basketball, baseball, and soccer.

Entering Newton High in 1934, he served as president of the Sophomore class and, during that year, played varsity football, varsity basketball, and intermediate baseball. His Junior year, in which he was elected captain of the 1937 football team, was characterized by the same athletic prowess. A few days before his death, he was selected as the "most athletic boy" in the Junior class. It is with this title, with its implications of leadership and true sportsmanship, that Bill would want us to remember him — and we shall.

FOOTBALL

A GAIN the Newton Norsemen, after one of the fiercest seasons on record, captured the Suburban League Championship. A snappy squad, led by the twin co-captains, Al and Brad Thompson, derived much fun and enjoyment, well-seasoned with good sportsmanship, from the rigorous fall schedule. The results:

Newton, 20	Cambridge, 7	Newton, 19	Quincy, 0
Newton, 7	Arlington, 6	Newton, 6	Rindge, 0
Newton, 0	Everett, 6	Newton, 32	Worcester S., 0
Newton, 6	Brockton, 25	Newton, 0	Waltham, 20
Newton, 26 Brookline, 6

6 wins — 3 losses — a good season!

With a number of returning veterans, Intermediate, and Jay Vee bright lights, next year's team should easily carry on in the wake of the 1936 squad.

Although the school, shocked by his sudden death, grieves sincerely the loss of Captain-elect Bill Johnston, the players feel that his winning personality, his spirit of good sportsmanship, his skillful playing will live on to inspire them in the coming season.

May all hopes be fulfilled!

WITH but one returning letter winner, many aspirants, and no ice, Newton's new hockey coach welded a team which compelled respect from every opponent in the league. After reaching as high as third place in the standing, Newton closed the season sharing sixth place with Melrose.

The schedule opened with ragged defeats at the hands of Cambridge Latin and Medford, but the team tied Rindge. This was followed by a terrific triumph over Arlington, and Melrose fell in a game that had the Garden in continuous uproar. The champion Stoneham team with great difficulty defeated the Orange and Black 3 to 1.

Belmont was taken 2 to 1, and, after Brown scored in ten seconds, Stoneham won again. The last two games of the season were thrilling contests, both ending in scoreless ties against Medford and Rindge.

Greene, Nichols, and Turner were selected to play on the G. B. I. League's second team, while Paul Brown's steady aggressiveness and Buttrick's brilliant net-tending earned them positions on the first All-Scholastic, which defeated its Bay State League and Canadian opponents.

As no leader had been elected at the beginning of the season, Goalie Herb Buttrick was chosen captain at the same time that Ben Mason was elected to lead the team next year.

BASKETBALL

UNDER the able and inspiring leadership of Captain Leonard LeSourd, the 1937 basketball team closed the season with the creditable record of eight games won to five lost. In spite of the fact that only four letter-winners returned, Coach Simmons's team was able to finish fourth in the Suburban League, and defeat the arch rival, Brookline, twice.

After the opening game, in which the Faculty was badly beaten, Newton easily defeated Watertown, but was nosed out by an excellent Cambridge Latin team. A few days later, the Orange and Black missed a great second-half comeback and lost to Rindge. Getting back into the win column, Newton upset Arlington on the home court. Playing on their new floor, Waltham outscored Newton but the team came back the next game to topple an undefeated Brookline team from the top of the league.

The second half of the season opened with Newton's second loss to Cambridge, but with a reversal of the earlier defeat by Rindge. Arlington was taken again in a rough contest, but Waltham once more proved too strong and Newton bowed in a very well-played game. After a second victory over Watertown, the Orange and Black closed the season with a triumph over Brookline.

A N unpublicized 1937 Newton varsity started off the season by taking five straight Suburban League games. In the first game, against Waltham, Guido Castoldi, ace twirler of the loop, tamed the Watch-City boys, allowing but 7 hits and hanging up 16 strikeouts. The Orange and Black then topped Arlington 6-5 when pitcher Eddie Paul hit a home run in the 11th inning. Newton's next win, none too impressive, came at the expense of Cambridge Latin, 9-5; the fray was rather ragged and featured only by Guido Castoldi. The real bright spot was his home run with two on, which clinched the victory. In his second start, Eddie Paul pitched the home boys to a one-sided, 11-3 win over Rindge Tech, while Gruber's heavy hitting helped to roll up the score. The first shut-out of the year was against Brookline, the honors again going to Guido Castoldi, who allowed but four hits. In this game Bert Marrazzo hit a four-bagger with one aboard.

In view of their remarkable start, it looks now as though Newton might finish very close to the top of the Suburban League.

INDOOR TRACK

THE 1936-1937 edition of Newton's indoor track forces successfully opened its season by over-powering Medford High, 56 $\frac{1}{3}$ to 20 $\frac{2}{3}$. Because of inclement weather, the annual dual meet with Everett was cancelled. For the second straight year Newton won the Northeastern Meet, featured by Pescosolido's record high jump of 6 feet 2 $\frac{1}{8}$ inches. Lowell was next defeated, 51 to 26. In the Eastern Seaboard Relay carnival, the team scored only three points, being disqualified in two out of three relay races. The tracksters got back on the victory trail at the Andover Interscholastic Meet, overcoming Boston English, the second place team, 29 to 15. This order was reversed at the State Meet, where English came out on top by a score of 28 to 22. Paul Forté was a double winner in the 50-yard dash and the standing broad jump. Coach Enoch's team defeated its traditional rival, Brookline, 52 to 25. A Newton team, badly weakened by ineligibility, came back from the final meet at Bowdoin with 14 points and third place.

Letter winners were: Robert Muther, captain, Jeremiah Allen, Basil Babcock, Mark Corthell, Paul Forté, Joseph Gallant, Francis Hines, Harvey Isham, William Kelly, Donald MacKinnon, Steward MacNeil, Richard Massell, Mark Messier, Alfred Parkhurst, William Pescosolido, Elmer Ross, Timothy Sullivan, manager.

THE 1937 cinder-fellas included as mainstays Forté and Hines in the dash; Allen, Muther, and Ross in the furlong and quarter; Gallant, Kelley, Babcock, and Corthell in the 880 and mile; Pescosolido, Messier in the jumps; McKinnon for the hurdles; Evans and Fitchet for shot-put and discus.

The Vikings scored two of three possible firsts at the opening New England Relays, defeating sixteen high and prep schools. Second place was merited in the Worcester Tech meet. Here "Pesky" broke the broad jump record, while Bob Muther drove home to place in a dazzling 440. Kelly, in the 880, and Lee Evans, scaling the discus, each chalked up second places. Gallant and Babcock added other points.

The Norsemen sailed to satisfying victory in the Quadrangular Meet between the State's keenest competitors: Lowell, Brockton, Medford, and Newton. Joe Gallant flashed the "Ace" when he upset Carmen Bova, State champ, to take a clean first in the half-mile.

If the Newton crew keeps its pace, it should scud along to victory in the Brookline, Harvard Interscholastic, Amherst, and State Relay meets which remain. The lads feel honored in being indebted to "Don" Enoch, "Lem" Boyle, and "Charley" Consodine for their splendid coaching.

TENNIS

NEWTON tennis continued at its high pace in 1937 and was looking forward to another undefeated season when the Newtonian went to press. In its traditional opener with Milton Academy, Newton won 6-3 for the second win in ten years. Thereafter, Newton successively trimmed Huntington School 7-2, Nashua High (the last high school to upset Newton) 6-1, the collegians from Babson Institute 4-1, Andover-Newton 6-2, and the Tufts College Freshmen 7-3.

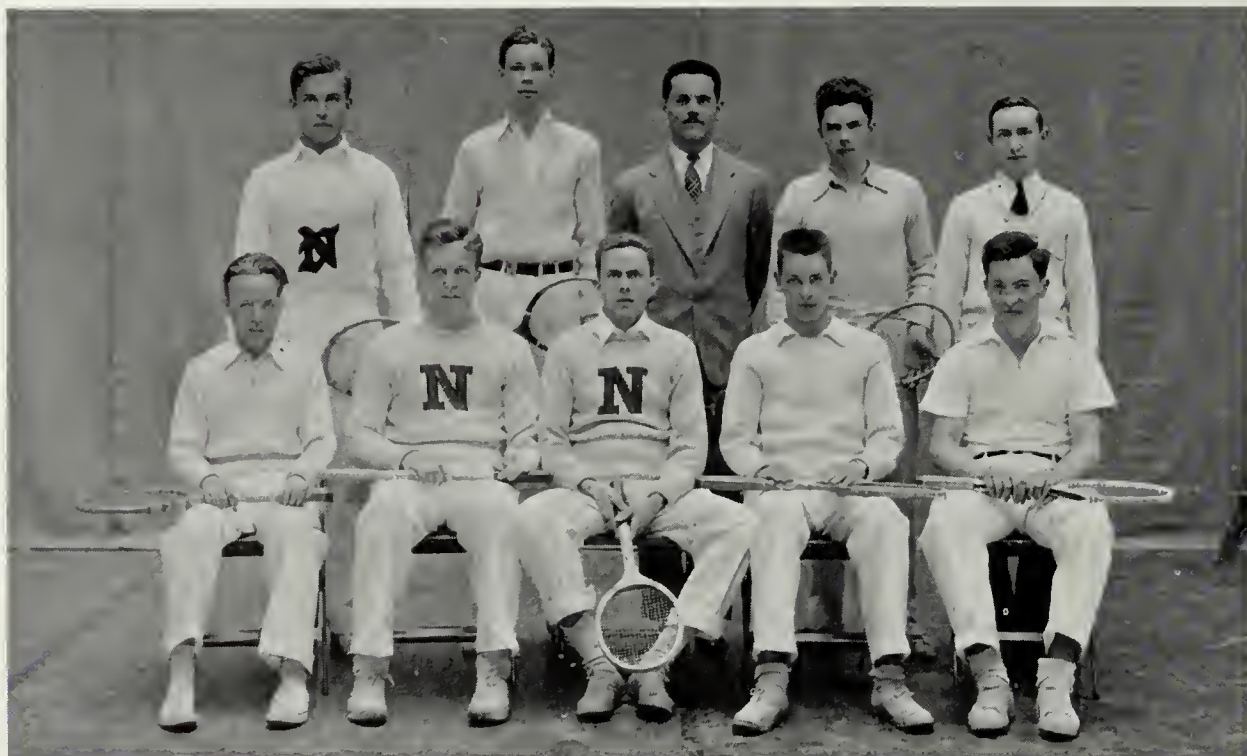

Headed by A. Everts, Don Manchester, Art Pearson, and Captain Clayton Mosher, the team was a heavy favorite to win the tenth annual Interscholastics, in which both Everts and Manchester were slated to be seeded. Les Lowry, a Junior, and Lyman Robinson completed the varsity sextet with Stu Pattison and Ernie Johnson, who performed creditably in doubles assignments.

Meanwhile, the second team, playing a schedule of matches with varsity teams unwilling to tackle Newton's varsity, and with second teams from Milton Academy and Brookline High, won from Milton and Needham, lost a tight match to Watertown, and tied Lexington. Pattison and Johnson led the team, with Leon Kruger, Jack Carder, Jack Barry, and Johnny Plimpton performing creditably.

GOLF

Coach THOMAS G. WALTERS

FORMERLY, Newton has maintained a high rating in the Suburban Golf League, producing many well-known players in New England circles, such as Roy Merchant, last year's captain; Pat Hegarty, past state champ; Gordon Wentworth, now at Dartmouth; Bobby Hunter, member of Harvard's team; and Bill Herlihy of Holy Cross.

This year's first meeting was held in room 1206 on Tuesday, April 6th. The coach made suggestions concerning the coming season. Several practice rounds followed at Albemarle.

Incidentally, Mr. Walters presided at a meeting of golf coaches at Newton High to draw up this year's schedule.

In their first encounter, the Newtonians downed Watertown $7\frac{1}{2}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$. Soon after, they were downed by Lexington, the score reversed, Newton $1\frac{1}{2}$, Lexington $7\frac{1}{2}$. Pre-season forecasts predicted stiff opposition from both Lexington and Arlington.

SKI TEAM

OLD MAN WINTER must have completely forgotten the Newton High School ski team this year. The remarkable lack of snow throughout the entire season curbed all activity. Last year the newly organized team consisted of six members; this year forty-five candidates reported in December. Plans for meets were made with eight other schools around Newton. In spite of the team's inactivity, the large number of enthusiastic candidates proved that interest in skiing was rapidly increasing, and pointed to an even larger group next year. Slow motion films, "Skiing Technique" by Hans Schneider, were used as part of the preliminary instruction for all members of the club.

The popularity of skiing in New England has recently increased by leaps and bounds, and snow trains have brought the New Hampshire trails and slopes within easy reach. Many non-skiers believe the sport is just a fad. However, anyone who has mastered the art sufficiently to stand up on a hill knows just how much fun it really is. This is probably because it is so much a matter of self — essentially a solo performance. It can be safe and mild, or thrilling and dangerous, depending upon the temperament and ability of the individual.

THIS year eighty-three girls reported to Miss Burnham for hockey. The Sophomores were represented by three teams, the Junior and Senior class by one each. The Seniors, captained by Emma Bjornson, were victorious in an inter-class tournament.

The first team, led by Mildred Hanlon, opened the season against Needham with a 1-1 score. With more experience in team play, we defeated Waltham 3-0. Brookline was downed 6-2; and in an evenly matched contest with Watertown, neither team was able to score. A 1-0 victory over the Alumnae featured the last game. The second team defeated Needham, Brookline, and Watertown, but lost to Waltham.

The play day, supervised by the Boston Field Hockey Association, was held on our own field and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Many girls received valuable coaching from members of the Irish Hockey Team.

At the Girls' Assembly, varsity "N's" were awarded to Edna Currier, Helen Goodale, Betty Cunningham, Barbara Patey, Lorraine Stickney, Virginia Wilder, Mildred Hanlon, and the manager, Eleanor Baxter. Chevrons were awarded to Nancy McNeill, Margeret Lopas, Locardia Hartwich, and Mary Doyle. Small "N's" for membership on the second team were given to fourteen girls.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

AFTER many weeks of drill on technique, under the supervision of Miss Loysen, the one hundred and seventy girls that reported for basketball were divided into teams. The winner of the intra-mural tournament was team "A," captained by Mary Doyle.

Class squads elected Nancy McNeill, Lorraine Stickney, and Erminia Mancini captains of the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore combinations. The first game, played with Cambridge Latin, was won by the Seniors and Juniors, but the Sophomores lost. Although the Seniors and Juniors defeated Needham, the Sophomores still could not break into the win column. When Waltham went home with a victory over the juniors and sophomores, the Newton Seniors won. In the final game both the Juniors and Sophomores suffered defeat at the hands of Watertown, while the Seniors triumphed. This is the second straight year the strong aggregation has continued without a loss.

The varsity squad, comprised of three full teams and substitutes, defeated the Alumnae 21-7, and hopes to do the same to the faculty.

At the Girls' Gym Meet, varsity "N's" were received by Edna Currier, Ann DeSaulniers, and the manager, Nancy Marvin. Chevrons, for two and three-year service, were awarded to Nancy MacNeill, Locardia Hartwich, Mildred Hanlon, and Mary Doyle.

GIRLS' TENNIS

Captain, VALIA CICCONE

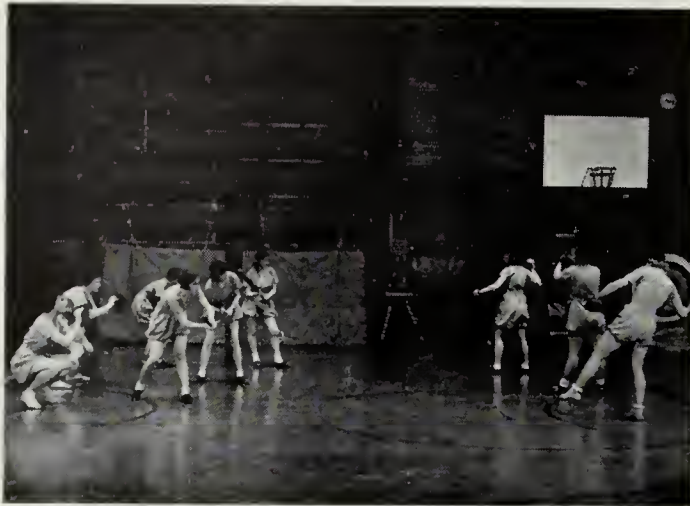

Coach, MAIDA FLANDERS

TENNIS is one of the most popular sports for girls, and every fall there are many enthusiastic candidates reporting to Miss Flanders, the coach. This year, as usual, a large number turned out and the annual fall tournament was started. It was not finished in the fall, so had to be played off in the spring.

Indoor practices were conducted in the early spring before the weather allowed outdoor work. A bumper tournament will be held again this year, providing opportunity for a girl to work her way to the top by challenging the other members of the squad. The seven highest players will comprise the final varsity team. Although at this time the team has not been completed, the present working tennis squad consists of the following girls: Valia Ciccone, Bette Foley, Theresa Mingace, Roslyn Gruber, Anne Woods, Doris Mergendahl, Susan Whitback, Shirley Cline, Ruth Eddy, Nancy MacNeill, Betty Manners, Betty Gale, and Helen Spence.

The squad is looking forward confidently to the following matches which remain on the schedule: May 27, with Winchester at Winchester; June 3, with Watertown at Newton; and June 10, with Brookline at Newton.

INTRA-MURAL SPORTS FOR GIRLS

BASEBALL

Baseball, always a popular spring sport with the boys, now has many skilled players among the girls, who derive much pleasure from the game.

TRACK

Although one of the newer sports for women, track is fast gaining favor and interest among the fair sex.

LACROSSE

For long the most popular field sport in Canada, Lacrosse, since it was introduced at Newton, has found a great many feminine enthusiasts.

ARCHERY

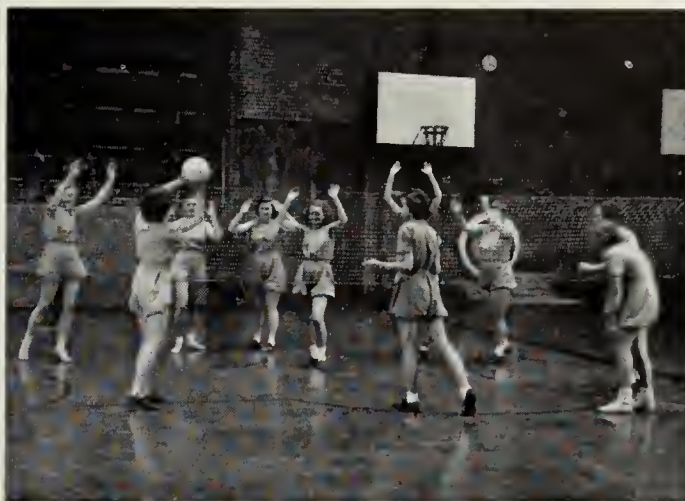

In fair weather, one can invariably see Newton's feminine archers practicing this sport which gives so much individual enjoyment.

INTRA-MURAL SPORTS FOR GIRLS

SOCCKER

Soccer, a more active game than some of the other intra-mural sports, is a favorite with many of the girls.

VOLLEY BALL

An old favorite, Volley Ball still finds its place among the most popular of the intra-murals with Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors.

BADMINTON

Since Badminton now ranks with the most popular social sports, Newton has been among the first to add it to its girls' athletic system.

PING-PONG

Ping-pong, as a game of speed and skill, has been reorganized and enthusiastically revived by a large number of eager participants in this recreational sport.

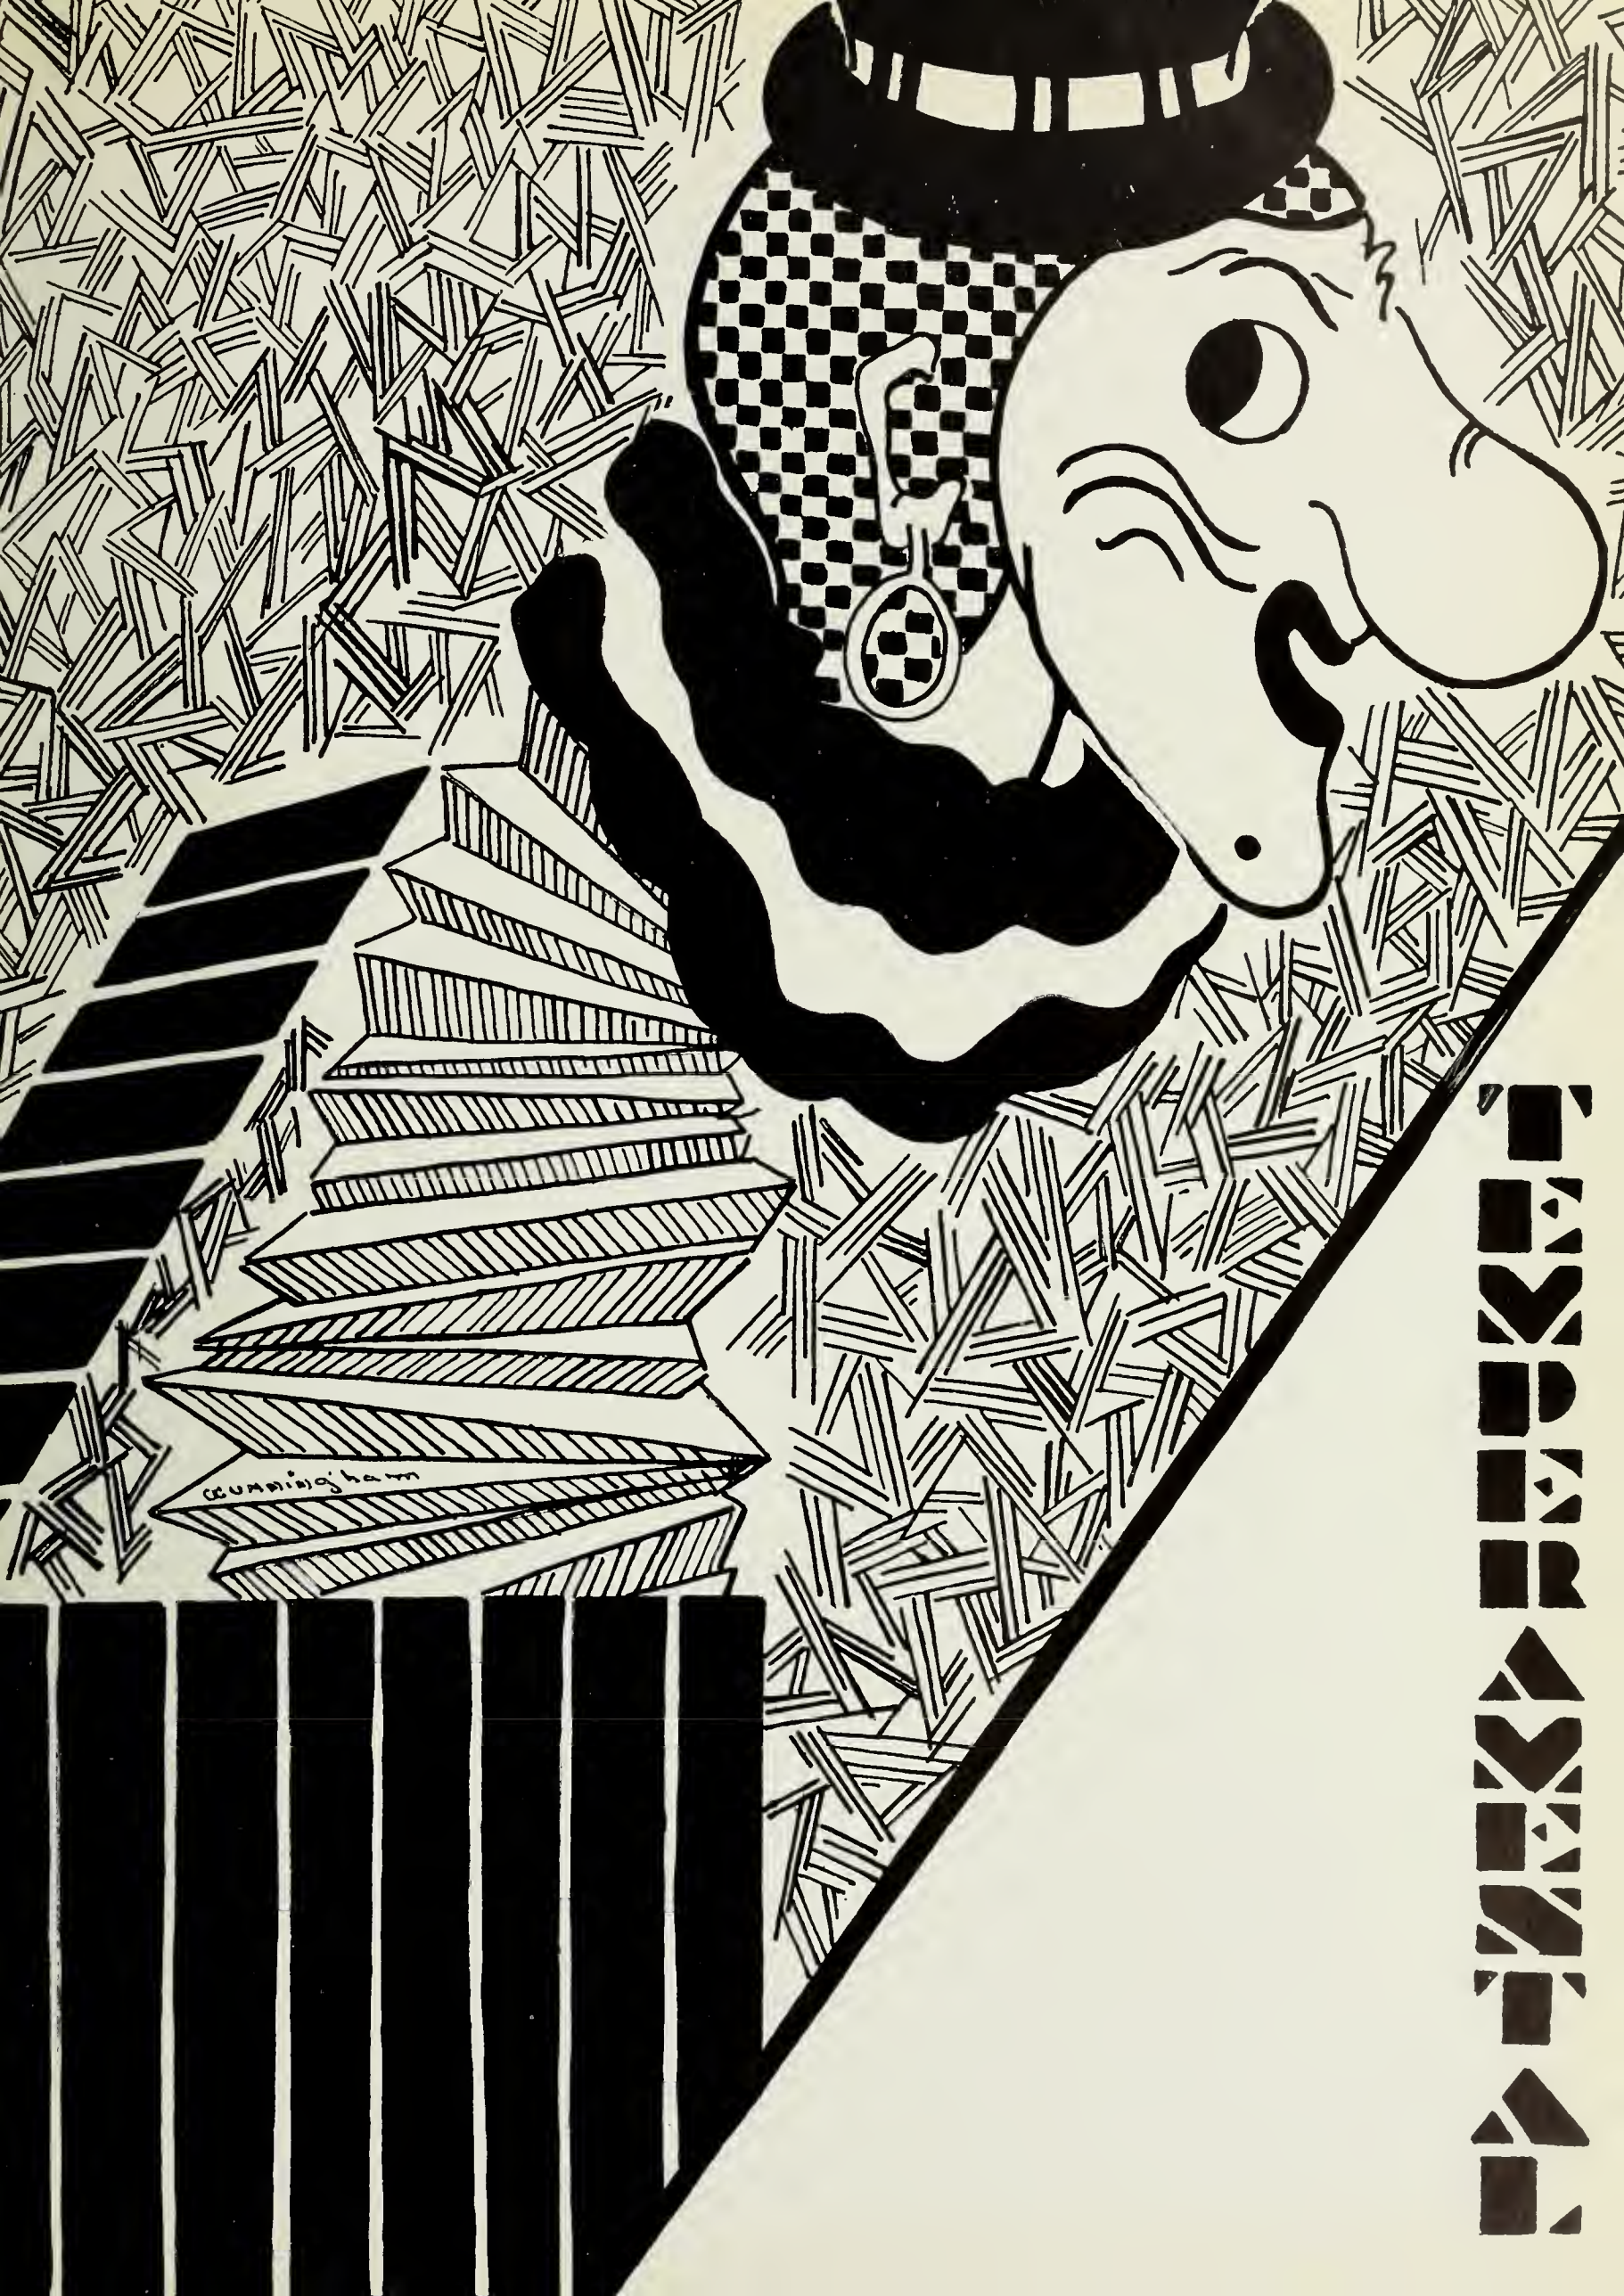

"IN THE NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL, SIR, WE BELIEVE THAT WIT, HUMOR, AND SATIRE LIKEWISE HAVE THEIR VALUE. VARIED OCCASIONS AND PLANS NOURISH THIS PART OF OUR NATURES.

"WILL YOU JOIN ME, THEN, AND LEAF THROUGH THE PAGES CONTRIBUTED BY OUR WITS, SATIRISTS, AND PROPHETS? IF YOU ENJOY THEM, WE SHALL BE HAPPY; AND IF YOU HAVE BEEN FAVORABLY IMPRESSED WITH YOUR TOUR OF OUR SCHOOL, WE SHALL FEEL HONORED."

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

WE, the class of 1937, mentes insane in corporibus insanis, unfortunately realizing (1) that we are soon to be deceased as a class, (2) that any class which is not deceased after three years at Newton High School ought to be, anyway, and (3) that every preceding class at the said Newton High School has made a will, fearing (1) that our numerous beneficiaries desire to know (in the regrettable vernacular) "what's coming to them" and (2) that we have a lot of stuff to give away, and knowing (1, 2, 3, etc.) that no one will read further than this anyhow, do herein indite, ordain, and establish our last will and testament:

To the school we leave (after leaving the school):

Building Three, in rather damaged condition.
A sigh of relief.
The task of teaching the class of 1938.
The lunchroom.

To The Newtonite:

A new office (looking more like a jail than ever).
Mr. Williams (looking more like a Tory than ever).
Page Three (it gives us real pleasure to leave this).

To whom it may concern, the following institutions:

The Quaffs.
Mister (or is it Master?) Muzzey.
The Verse-Speaking Choir.
All regular polyhedra, now and forevermore.

To the class of 1938:

Frank Light's middle name.
Henry Hayes' practical jokes.
Miss Rideout's accent.
Betty Urban's voice.
Bob McMullin's French accent.
Evelyn Waddell's calligraphy.
John Mansfield's expression (we've drawn a blank there).
Paul Forte's modesty.
Harold Shapero's music.
Francis Donovan's cars.
Jane Dealy's brain (the little things in life).
Bill Loud's posture.
John Ryan's drag.
Eddie Wallace's enthusiasm.
Ann Sanguinetti's nervousness.
Stuart Stern's movie reviews (see N. Y. Times).
Marjorie Moncrieff's laughter.
Leon Lipson's acidity.

To which, having completed this "enterprise of great pith and moment," without any executor, for we have executed ourselves, we do willingly, heartily, cheerfully, and gladly place our seal in this year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-seven.

REMINISCENT PREMIERE

THE scintillating lights flash forth, "No, No, No!" The taxi, whose driver our memories vaguely resurrect as JACKIE KOUGHAN, leaves us at the door of the theatre which is presenting the premiere of JANE DEALY'S newest play. Pushing forward, we catch a glimpse of BOB and PAUL NOLAN with ALBERT THOMAS disappearing toward "Standing Room-50c." Passing through the lobby, we meet by chance a foursome consisting of JOHN RYAN and his fiancée ELDORA KIRTON, with CHRIS DONOVAN escorting BETTY FERGUSON. We pause to chat with them and learn that BUD FORTÉ has finally abandoned attempts to professionalize, and has become a waiter in the THOMPSON TWINS' Spa. JOHN, who is a leading literary critic of the Herald, mentions NOEL ALLEN'S "Pleasing Poetry" and DICK LOVELL'S "Vesuvius and the Political Problem of Today," which is fast acquiring fame. ELMER ROSS, featured sports writer for the Herald, stops to speak to John. Enthusiastic over JOSEPH GALLANT'S spectacular winning race and the recognition gained by our feminine contingent, headed by MARY DOYLE, MILDRED HANLON, and NANCY McNEILL, in the Olympics, Elmer rushes off to greet RICHARD MASSELL, also a sports writer.

The usher, HUGH TOMB, favoring us with a winning smile, shows us to our seats. Our gaze now wanders over the audience and rests on the figure entering in sweeping green satin, her arm on a rotund escort, Mrs. SETH FITCHET (EDITH PRATT) and her husband. They are followed by Mr. and Mrs. BARCLAY FEATHER (ANN HITCHCOCK). Mr. FEATHER is at present running against CHESTER NEWHEY for Superintendent of the City Street Cleaning Department; his wife is very prominent in social work. We also espy a comfortable group in the rear, consisting of the BISHOP twins with their wives, the BENYON twins. Rumor has it that they tossed up a coin for the choice. Our roving eyes see among those seated such couples as Mr. and Mrs. HENRY HAYES (MURIEL BROWN), whose miraculous elopement by the use of a rope ladder startled all Boston a few years ago; JOHN MANSFIELD with his fiancée, JANET FISHER; and Mr. and Mrs. WILLIAM COPELAND (LOIS CURRIE), whose marriage bonds seem tender and everlasting. Near us is seated a pompous man with hair prematurely grey, and whose caustic remarks make those about him cringe. It is LEON LIPSON, now seeking relaxation from the famous case he is handling, the murder of GERALDINE WISBACH, well-known cabaret dancer. We also notice MITCHELL MARCUS with JANE UNDERWOOD.

Our attention now strays to our program. EVELYN WADDELL is making her professional debut in the leading role, this evening, supported by a cast including the supple-tongued ANN SANGUINETTI, JACK PERRY, and STUART STERN, playing the acquiescent "yes-man." The play is staged and set by BERNARD ERICSON, with costumes by MARCELIA RENNARD.

Glancing idly through the Advertisements, we find ourselves invited to "Sup of LINCOLN MORTON'S famous waffles and dance to JEAN BUDDING'S thirteen-piece orchestra, featuring the radio crooner, NORMAN WATTS; Broadway's BETTY LLOYD and BARBARA STINSON in their dance, 'Kittens on the Keys,' and the Red-Headed Rollickers, DICK WHITNEY and CONNIE WILLIAMS." We are next arrested by the gloomy prediction, "Come one, come all," of MALCOLM HARDY, coroner, and GORDON FRENCH, embalmer. On the following page, "Palms Perused-Pleasant Prognostications by CHADWICK BYER, and BOB McMULLIN, accompanied by GERALD LOMBARDO, the great clairvoyant" meets our view. An attractive little notice announces the coming fashion show of Miss MORTIMER'S Exclusive Shoppe, modelled by WINIFRED GREGORY and JACQUELINE BANOUER. A painted glass of sparkling Burgundy proclaims the delightfulness of JACK SELBY'S "Sequestered Rendezvous, for the cocktail hour, featuring PEGGY BURKHARD, popular blues singer." We also find two recently established schools advertised on the program: Miss BALLOU'S School of Modern French, an exclusive academy endowed by a gift from her wealthy friend, Mrs. (BARBARA BANCROFT) Rockefeller; and the Elite Charm and Sophistication School of the Misses (DOROTHE) ELFMAN and (HELEN) ARONSON.

The lights are now lowering, so we glance curiously over the last page, which gives us the names of WALLACE-GOODALL, "Old-Fashioned Family Physicians," and also "Elocution in Five Easy Lessons" by JANICE POUZZNER and NATALIE SALTER. The play has now begun, and we are soon wrapped within its enthralling folds. As we finally leave the theatre, we feel strangely as though transported for a time back into the wild and glorious days of Newton High School.

To help Newton students through all their trials and tribulations, not to mention all kinds of adversity,
To be adequately prepared for commerce, industry, or university,
We must turn to our faculty, which is composed of teachers
(most faculties are) of almost unequalled diversity.

For example:

If math is our chosen subject, and we want to excel (take the binomial theorem or simultaneous quadratics as a sample),
We need go only to Miss Brackett, whose (person and) teachings are, to say the least, ample.

To guide the destinies of our Literary Page,
Which, as an index to Newton's literary talent, is an accurate, though not always flattering, gauge,
Miss Smith, whose profile (if the engraver read our handwriting correctly) is adjacent to this verse, is invaluable and sage.

If a difficult question in English came up, and a pupil wanted to seek a teacher who infallibly knew it, he Would go to Miss Robinson, all whose ideas are in perfect congruity,
And whose diction is free from any confusing superfluity.

For information in matters historical,
Go to Mr. Bernard, who always returns answers both categorical
And allegorical.

Next we come to Miss Nute, who has quite a predilection
For English classes and for Tusitala, on both of which she has lavished affection
And brought to an admirable state of near-perfection.

Now, if you will give your undivided attention, it
Is our pleasure to introduce Miss Myles, who can tell you how to say, "How are you today" and "Don't mention it"
With an air of that je-ne-sais-quoi French in it.

Mr. Johnson has been with us only one year, in reality,
But his merry ways and democratic attitude have already made 1101 a place of good cheer and hospitality.
We hope he will choose to remain for a long time in this locality.

Except for the time when he teaches English in Rooms 117 and 118,
Mr. Boyle can usually be found out at the track, early and late.
It is our fervent wish that the track team may give him something over which to elate.

Here is Mr. Consodine, who was a famous Brown "Iron Man" when Brown had famous "Iron Men," a decade or so ago,

Who is quite popular with those volatile sophomores in Building One who always come and go,
And who knows all about Social Studies — by which I mean Social Studies — that there is to know.

Finally we have Mr. Peterson, whose life is made miserable during pictures for the Newtonian;
He manages to get through, however, with a vocabulary approaching the Johnsonian
And an elegance that reminds one of the hanging gardens (Babylonian).

At last we're finished with the teachers,
With their interesting careers and (as you can see) their interesting features,
And digress, as it were, from the grandstand to the bleachers.

On this page you are treated with the countenances of some from your own number,
Who were chosen partly because they are typical and partly because they achieved more in their waking moments than in their hours of slumber;
As you can see, some are slightly smarter than the average,
and some are slightly dumber.

First is Jane Dealy, who is usually first in any enterprise,
Who succeeds in succeeding — if you get the idea — with a maximum of affability and a minimum of lies,
And who, for her truly superhuman work in keeping the Newtonian editors from one another's throats this year, deserves some sort of a prize.

Next is Leonard LeSourd, sometimes called "Lil"
By his acquaintances; he ought to get along in life, not only because of his athletic prowess, but because of his trait of talking when there's something to say and, when there isn't, keeping still;
And probably will.

This is Gerrie Wisbach, who engages in so many activities
That, to weed out the less essential ones, she has had to employ all sorts of selectivities,
And who is especially renowned for her terpsichorean proclivities.

Here we have Dick Whitney, the idol of the mass —
Es, since he is president of the Senior class;
But, fortunately, this contact with hoi polloi has failed to make him stupid or crass.

(That was nice and brief.) It is nearly impossible, however,
to be brief
About Barbara Bancroft, that phenomenon who is silent as the tomb in class, but, to everyone's relief, Exerts herself mightily in an extra-curricular way — even excelling in ping-pong, to the best of my belief.

This silhouette shows to great advantage the Grecian profile of Barclay Feather,
Who achieved the amazing feat of being simultaneously
president of the Associates and a cheer-leader, together With a host of minor offices, and constantly emanates an atmosphere of pleasant weather.

Meet Marcelia Rennard, who seems doomed to the position of perpetual secretary
Of something or other, but whose disposition is nevertheless reputed to be so merry
That she makes her acquaintances feel like June in January.

Brad Thompson
Is very popular, except among the football opponents he romps on;
And (for want of another rhyming word) is the twin brother of Al Thompson.

Evelyn Waddell, startling when crammed, as now, in only one ditty,
Is startling also in that she has ideas of considerable profundity
And has roused the Literary Page from its erstwhile moribundity.

Last (what a way to end!) is Leon Lipson, that pleasant person who reminds one of coffins and hearses,
Who, by a simple trick, is forced to look up at the people on this page, whereas he usually looks down on them, who curses
The situation, and was disgusted at being so nice to everyone whom he mentioned while writing these verses.

PARONOMASIA; OR, DRAMATIC SKETCHES OUTSIDE OF THE FACULTY

I

Scene (but not Heard): An Urban cottage on the great American desert (not ice cream — Arizona). Arizona one door to the building. The interior of the cottage's only room is painted Dwight. There is a bookcase filled with voluminous Tombs. The single window discloses the fact that it is a Drury day outside.

An old, gray-haired man, whose superannuated countenance expresses only benevolence, is seated before the hearth. His accessories — pipe, slippers, etc. — are left to the reader's fertile imagination.

A dapper, well-dressed young man enters.

Dapper: Waddell are you doing up so late at night, Dad?

Dipper (for he is the Feather of the young man): Now, I'll have none of your Lipson. Set down by the fireplace. I ain't seen you for a long time. Watts new?

Dapper: Nothin'.

Finis

II

Scene: a penthouse. Lady Arbuthnot has just dismissed Mr. butler because she asked Forté and he brought her Coffin doughnuts instead. She wants her maid to bring her some Ross beef, so she rings the bell.

End of Round Two!

III

Scene: Central Park in Spring. Everything is Budding, including the Hardy perennials. Two seedy-looking men (from the beeg seedy) are sitting on a bench Byer soap-box orator who has attracted quite a mob.

Orator (in a frenzy): My friends-y, I am opposed to the Newey Dealy. Although the Administration Ames high and aSpiers to great achievements, it has not succeeded. Prices are higher; wages are lower. The Bancroften asks for more collateral. We are uncertain as to their policies, and are constantly held in suSpence. I'm Collins you all to witness: Make Hayes while the sun shines! Doyley boid gets de woim! And, lastly. . . .

First Hobo (aside): Oh, stop Prattling!

Second Hobo (aside): Sure, he's only Fagin.

First Hobo (aside): Of course, look at White. He Hadden a nickel to his name, but he decided to make money and get married. He traveled all over the country, seeing all the Townsend cities. He met a beautiful girl and set out to win her. He kept saying old proverbs to her, like "An Appelto-day prevents sickness tomorrow," and "The pen is mightier than LeSourd." At first she didn't like it — who Wood? But Lovell find a way, and fiNally she accepted him. Now they're married, and very happy. All they're doin' is billin' and Koughan.

Second Hobo (still aside): Yep, New York is a cruel city. When a bum asks anyone for a dime, the folk Stern around and look the other way. I wish I Wisbach in the land of Cotton.

(Quick Kirton)
